The Last Hours of the Count.

[illegible], March 1.—2 A. M.—The bitter [illegible] feeling, the skillful parliamentary [illegible], and the exciting scenes of turbulence which have marked the proceedings that commenced 16 hours ago are drawing to a close and have had no [illegible] Congress since the days before the war. The hopes of the filibusters were [illegible] by early successes, and raised [illegible] of success by the Speaker's [illegible] ordinarily pertinent to [illegible] would be in order, and [illegible]ld's adroit speech, a number of [illegible] to vote in favor of Knott's [illegible] with its open menace to the Senate [illegible] of the Republicans induced despondency and panic. The [illegible] Knott and Hopkins' resolution [illegible] comparatively small, gave renewed hope to the friends of an orderly completion of the count, and it soon became evident [illegible] informed parliamentarians that [illegible] merely letting the refractory [illegible] in order to better rein them [illegible] their ready constitutional [illegible] privileges. Then came the [illegible] hour of waiting for the round of [illegible] motions and roll-calls to be [illegible] and during this time cool-headed [illegible], on exchanging opinions, agreed [illegible] Speaker's course was wise and judicious [illegible] the temper of the factions [illegible] inflamed by the turbulent scenes [illegible] preceded his compromise ruling, [illegible]erwise probably have led them to extremities, with the result of still [illegible] of time and probably riot or bloodshed. [illegible] regular Congressional report has [illegible] details of the proceedings [illegible] will, it is hoped, present, in [illegible] readers' perusal at their breakfast [illegible] announcement of the final [illegible] result of the long-pending [illegible] Presidential contest.

[illegible] in the House.

[illegible] March 1.—The Tribune's Washington [illegible] a vivid picture of the scenes of [illegible] occurred in the House as [illegible] down the obstruction[illegible] of passion was unequaled, [illegible] rose, gesticulating [illegible] time. When debate on [illegible] was ordered to begin, [illegible] in the House by the filibusters had taken off [illegible] return, and yet had been [illegible] the House against the [illegible] that the return was with [illegible] of some of the [illegible] the charge was made [illegible] ingenious argument to [illegible] filibustering vote of the [illegible] The filibusters to-day set [illegible] objections to Virginia and [illegible] hearing of it, Democratic [illegible] denunciations of men [illegible] the party in the House, [illegible] objections to either of the [illegible]

[illegible] March 2.—President elect [illegible] arrived at 9 o'clock, and was [illegible] Gov. Dennison, Senator Sherman [illegible] Sherman, who escorted him [illegible]. There were present about [illegible] as the party passed on [illegible] the carriages. They were driven [illegible] of Senator Sherman where [illegible] for the present.

[illegible] of the News in New York.

[illegible] March 2.—The journals this [illegible] several editions, and editorials [illegible] the election of Hayes. [illegible] excitement here and [illegible] are published. At this early [illegible] is anxious to learn the [illegible] actual result of the count [illegible] too late for criticism by [illegible] people so far as known [illegible]erfully, others doggedly.

[illegible] Celebrating.

[illegible] March 2.—Throughout New England [illegible]ublicans are celebrating the President['s elec]tion by firing salutes and decorating [illegible] with bunting.

The Inter-Ocean's Views.

[illegible] Ocean says: In spite of a cloud [illegible], President Hayes will assume [illegible] the Presidential office at a most [illegible]. The experience of both his [illegible] has been stormy, and his own [illegible] executive chair has been over a [illegible] road, but the top of the [illegible] been reached, and the outlook [illegible] discouraging. Lincoln was [illegible] born of agitation. Grant the [illegible] of revolution and Hayes the [illegible] we hope may prove the era [illegible]. The Inter Ocean considers [illegible] policy in Louisiana, South [illegible] Florida matters a secret which is [illegible] own breast. Whatever he will [illegible] already been ordered, and will [illegible] by the people.

[illegible] Impartially.

[illegible] March 2.—The Post's editorial on [illegible] proceedings in Congress says: The [illegible] country are due to all who aided [illegible] consummation, without regard to [illegible] previous condition, whether [illegible] otherwise. Wood deserves praise. [illegible] rendered indispensable service at [illegible], and full credit should be given [illegible] Southern men whose attitude [illegible] the start sounded the counsels [illegible]. It is a providence that the [illegible] have resulted in the election of [illegible] came from so many different [illegible] he is under plain obligation to [illegible] between all parties. He is [illegible] delivered from the slightest obligation [illegible] to one class, namely the machine [illegible], who fought against him at Cincinnati. [illegible] has had help from the North and [illegible] and from the Northern Democrats [illegible] Democrats, from the native and [illegible], but the he came so as to leave [illegible] to do right while fully justifying [illegible] impartial.

More Speculations.

[illegible] editorial says: After reviewing the bitter contest since June, and the personal [illegible] and support afforded to each candidate, [illegible] much about the policy of the [illegible] administration. Nothing can be known [illegible] advance of the inaugural address, which will be awaited with an eagerness unprecedented since 1861. Some surmise that the [illegible] time foreshadows a surrender to the [illegible] South; but in dealing justly by the white [illegible] in the States lately rebellious, President Hayes will not, we are confident, abandon the negroes or leave them at the mercy of the bulldozers.

Governor Hayes Resigns.

Columbus, March 1.—Gov. Hayes left his resignation in the office here to be filed on future notice. A telegram was received this morning to file it. It is as follows:

Executive Dept, State of Ohio,
Columbus, Feb. 28, 1877.

I hereby resign the office of Governor of the State of Ohio, my resignation to take effect on the 2d day of March next.

(Signed) R. B. HAYES.

Upon receipt of the telegram Lieut. Gov. Thos. L. Young was notified of Hayes' resignation. He at once proceeded to the Executive Department, where the oath of office as Governor was administered to him by Chief Justice Welch in the presence of the State officers and many citizens of the city. Gov. Young left for Washington at noon.

President and President Elect.

Washington, March 2.—During the session of the cabinet to-day President elect Hayes, accompanied by Gen. Sherman and Governor Dennison, called at the executive mansion, Mr. Hayes desiring to present his respects to the President. The distinguished party were ushered into the council chamber where the cabinet was in session, and all proceedings were stopped so that the formalities of introduction might proceed. The President elect was especially greeted and congratulated by President Grant and the members of the cabinet, all of whom, with the exception of Secretary Morrill, who was kept away by sickness, were present, and mutual expressions of happiness were exchanged at the termination of the question that agitated Congress and the country. A general conversation was briefly held, and the President and President elect had an earnest and quiet conversation of some minutes' duration, in which President Grant acquainted the President elect of the directions given concerning the new occupancy of the executive mansion, and of the arrangements made in regard to the courtesies attending the inaugural ceremonies so far as they concerned the present chief magistrate. The personal and political friends of the President elect were at the executive mansion, and when his party left all shook hands with him before he entered his carriage. From the Executive Mansion, the party drove to the Capitol, proceeding at once by invitation of the President of the Senate to the Vice President's room where an informal reception was held. Republican and many Democratic Senators called to pay their respects and were presented to Hayes by Ferry. Subsequently a large number of members of the House and other persons of prominence called and tendered their congratulations. President elect Hayes remained at the Vice President's room more than an hour. Among the Congressmen who called on him were Reagan, Ben Hill, Blount and Chandler. At least 1,000 persons were in the corridors anxious to be presented, but the crowd increasing it was deemed proper to restrict the callers to members of Congress and their friends. The presence of the President elect caused much interest in all parts of the Capitol. Vice President elect Wheeler arrived at 1 P. M. and proceeded to the Capitol.

Pray for the President.

Philadelphia, March 2.—Arrangements are progressing for a great inaugural union prayer meeting here next Sunday next, in response to a wish of President elect Hayes, asking that the people would pray that Divine assistance and guidance might be vouchsafed him in the discharge of his duties. Hope is expressed that similar meetings will be held throughout the country.

Preparations for the Inaugural.

Washington, March 2.—The President-elect and party arrived at Sherman's residence. A large number were there to receive them. Arrangements are being perfected for celebrating inaugural day. General Whipple will be chief marshal of all the U. S. troops and marines in the city, and the light battery from Baltimore is ordered to report. The Washington light infantry corps, Washington Light Guard, and numerous civic societies will also take part in the procession. The following visiting organizations will be in line: State Invincibles and Wecacoe (?) Legion, of Philadelphia; the DuQuesne Grays, and Hutchinson's Battery of Pittsburg; the Columbus Cadets, of Columbus, Ohio; Cos. F and J, 1st Virginia National Guard; the Hartranft Club, Americus Club, and 19th Ward clubs, of Philadelphia. Sixteen pyramids of flags and Chinese lanterns will be erected at street intersections, and the residences of business houses along Pennsylvania avenue will be decorated, and in the evening that thoroughfare will be illuminated from the Capitol to Seventeenth street with calcium lights and Chinese lanterns, and the houses will be illuminated. There will also be a display of fireworks and a torchlight procession. The public buildings along the route of the torchlight procession will be decorated and illuminated.

Executive Session of the Senate Called

The President has issued a proclamation convening the Senate in extra session on the 5th of March at noon. The proclamation is as follows:

Whereas, Objects of interest to the United States require that the Senate should be convened on the 5th day of next March, to receive and act upon such communications as may be made to it on part of the Executive, now, therefore, I, Ulysses S. Grant, President of the United States, have considered it to be my duty to issue this proclamation, declaring that an extraordinary occasion requires the Senate of the United States to convene for the transaction of business at the capitol in the city of Washington on the 5th of March next, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, of which all of whom shall at that time be entitled to act as members of that body, are hereby to take notice. Given under my hand and the seal of the United States at Washington, 2d of March, in the year of our Lord, 1877, and of Independence of the United States 101st.

U. S. GRANT.

By the President:
Hamilton Fish, Secretary of State.

Congratulating Each Other.

Washington, March 2.—The appearance of the House is in marked contrast to that of yesterday. The members all join in congratulations that during the heated contest there has been no violence.

Louisiana Resolutions.

New Orleans, March 1.—The Republican legislature to-day adopted resolutions condemning the action of Republicans in Washington, who circulated the false report that the Packard government has not the confidence of the people, and affirm the contrary is the case, and the necessity for government aid now lies in the fact of an unlawful conspiracy of those who in 1874 overthrew the government of the State, who have seized the arsenal and State arms. The resolutions declare if Hayes is elected Packard is also.

Rumor that the Packard Government will Burn the State House.

The World's special from New Orleans at midnight says: About an hour ago a Frenchman, who keeps shop under the State House, called on the French consul and reported Captain Lawler of the Packard police had ordered him to close up, as they intended to fire the building. The French consul advised him to put out the French flag and call on Nicholls' police for protection. Chief Boylan, of Nicholls' police, sent a large force to the neighborhood. The Frenchman's story seems improbable, but it is certain that to-day a large quantity of pine lumber was carried into the State house, and it is suspected the Packard faction really intend to evacuate the building after firing it, and then charge the act on the Nicholls people.

Packard will Resist.

The Herald's New Orleans special says: The Louisiana compromise, said to have been effected at Washington, has been a prominent topic of conversation here to-day, and is almost universally indorsed. Tilden's following is now scarcely perceptible, either in or outside of the party. From late indications Packard will not give up the governorship without a contest. Car loads of lumber have been taken to the State House to-day, and a score of carpenters have been busy strengthening the barricades.

Two Little Telegrams to Augur and Packard.

Washington, March 2.—Representatives Ellis and Gibson and Col. Burke of Louisiana, to-day called on the President, who showed them two telegrams prepared to be sent to Gen. Augur and Gov. Packard. In the first, Gen. Augur is informed that hereafter troops must not be used for political purposes in Louisiana, but for the purpose only of preserving public peace, and in aid of the civil authorities when the latter are powerless to do so. The telegram to Packard was to the effect that the policy of maintaining a State government by federal troops must be abandoned, as such use of federal force was against public sentiment and unjust to the wishes of the people.

Abandonment of Packard.

Washington, March 2.—The following telegram has been sent to Packard:

Executive Mansion,
Washington City, March 1, 1877.

Gov. S. B. Packard, New Orleans: In answer to your dispatch of this date, the President directs me to say he feels it his duty to state frankly that he does not believe public opinion will longer support the maintenance of the State government in Louisiana by the use of the military, and that he must concur in this manifest feeling. Troops will hereafter, as in the past, protect life and property from mob violence when the State authorities fail, but in the remaining days of his official life they will not be used to establish or pull down either claimant for control of the State. It is not his purpose to recognize either claimant. (Signed)

C. C. SNIFFEN.

Pelton Testifies.

Washington, March 1.—Pelton before the Senate committee on elections read a written statement concerning the election dispatches. He testified all the telegrams received by the Democratic committee in New York were delivered during the day at 59 Liberty street, and during the night at the Everett House, in accordance with an order at the telegraph office. None were received at Gramercy Park, even when directed there, nor were answers sent from there. Telegrams were opened by such members as were present at the time. None of the cipher telegrams were delivered at Gramercy Park, and Gov. Tilden never knew of any cipher telegrams received from or sent to Oregon. He never knew of the Gabble dispatch. Telegrams addressed to Pelton were often opened and read and answered without his knowing anything of them, and some of the telegrams put in evidence, purporting to have come to him, he did not recognize. The telegram from Portland, Oregon, dated Nov. 20th, purporting to be signed by Patrick and sent to him, was never translated or read by him. He never understood it to contain the proposition to purchase an elector, nor any elector. He never sanctioned furnishing money to purchase an elector in Oregon, nor did any one else, to his knowledge. His purpose was simply to furnish the committee in Oregon with funds to meet their just and legitimate expenses. Never heard it intimated by any one that Grover or any one else in office in Oregon was to be paid anything, nor that Cronin was to be paid anything for loss of time, expenses, etc., and never heard that any money was desired for such purpose until he saw the evidence before the senate committee.

Land Matters in Southern California.

Washington, March 1.—The bill confirming title to the California school indemnity selections was to-day signed by the President and became a law, with immediate effect of quieting title to several hundred thousand acres of the most valuable lands in the State, and preventing an otherwise incalculable amount of litigation and disturbance of property interest. Notwithstanding their failure to defeat the passage of the bill in Congress, the jumpers and their Washington attorneys made desperate efforts to prevent its approval by the President. Eighty of the Los Angeles jumpers telegraphed to the President, earnestly requesting him to veto the bill, on the ground that it would deprive them and other honest settlers of homes and valuable improvements. He thereupon referred it to the interior department for examination and advice as to whether he should approve it or not, and Judge Widney, who is representative of State titles, and has spent nearly a year in procuring the passage of the bill, found himself last week obliged to encounter seven or eight attorneys in two days. He went before the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and, on the whole merits of the question, the commissioner was convinced by Widney's rebutting argument, and reported favorably. The contest was then carried up to the Secretary of the Interior and waged for several hours yesterday with the same result. Wiggington and Lottrell seconded Widney's effort at the department, and labored for the bill in the Senate, by making strong personal representations to the President, urging its signature. Widney very effectively met the pretended settlers' telegraphic plea for sympathy by producing certificates of the Great Register of Los Angeles county, showing that these men are clerks, carpenters, shoemakers, barkeepers, etc., with their local residences and places of business in Los Angeles. The newspaper there containing advertisements of some of them. Judge Widney leaves for California to-night.

Confirmed.

Washington, March 2.—The Senate to-day confirmed the nomination of J. Weeks, of Nevada, to be receiver of public moneys.

Military Orders.

Pay Inspector Caspar Schenck is ordered to duty as inspector of provisions and clothing at the navy yard, Mare Island.

E. C. Doran is ordered as purchasing paymaster at San Francisco, relieving John S. Cunningham, who is ordered home to settle accounts.

Matters Before the Senate.

Washington, March 2.—In the Senate today House bill to adjust the claims of owners of lands within the limits of the Klamath Indian reservation, Ogn., was taken up and discussed at some length, and then postponed till the first Monday in December next.

The deficiency appropriation bill, as reported from the conference committee and passed by both houses, contains all the Senate amendments which were inserted on motion of Sargent, providing for the deficiency in the California Surveyor General's office, and for payment of the bills of numerous Pacific coast deputy surveyors.

Sargent to-day got the House item for continuing work on the appraiser's building, increased in the Senate from $50,000 to $100,000.

A bill was passed by the Senate to day concerning townsite entries, Page's measure, which passed the House last session. Its effect is to limit each townsite patent to the maximum of 2,500 acres, unless the town actually covers a greater area. Its chief purpose is to remedy the existing meshes of law in Utah, where enormous entries have been made throughout the Territory, nominally for city purposes, but really to prevent Gentile pre-emption and homestead settlers from acquiring title to any desirable valley.

Kelly, in the Senate to-day called up the long pending House bill to grant lien land for the Klamath Indian reservation in Oregon. Mitchell said he would vote with his colleague to take it up for consideration, but would vote against its passage. The bill was then taken up, and after discussion, in which Kelly favored and Mitchell opposed, it was postponed till next December. As it is a House bill this kills it. Most of its beneficiaries are residents of California, including a number of San Francisco capitalists.

The bill relative to distilling grape brandy, reported in the finance committee and passed by the Senate to-day, is a bill drafted at the internal revenue bureau, as hitherto described, extending warehouse and drawback privileges to native brandy producers, under safeguards and restrictions which obviate departments of former objections. After some brief remarks by Sargent, explanatory of the bill, and showing its importance to the wine interests of California, the bill was agreed to as an amendment to the House bill, or a substitute for that measure. The California delegation will undoubtedly secure the concurrence in this amendment, and the bill, therefore, may be expected to become a law to-morrow.

Washington, March. 2.—The committee of conference on the postal appropriation bill at another meeting this afternoon reported that they were unable to agree. The principal points at issue are the Pacific Mail and Brazilian subsidy amendments of the Senate, and the proposed increased amount appropriated for railway service.

The Statesman learns that the Willamette Collegian is soon to be revived, and is to be twice its original size.

Suicide.

San Francisco, March 1.—A man named C. D. Munson hanged himself this evening in his room at 219 Clapp street. He rigged a brace across the closet to which he attached a rope, stood on a trunk, made the rope fast around his neck and jumped off the trunk. The suicide was occasioned by the loss of money in stock transactions, and subsequent hard drinking. Single man, aged 35.

Organizing.

S. P. Downey and Thos. Lloyd this evening organized a new camp of the Order of Caucasians with a membership of over one hundred.

Rain.

The wind has been blowing from the southwest all day with a drizzling rain at intervals. This evening the wind is strong from the south; raining lightly. Rain is reported south of here.

Reports from the interior indicate a fine rain has been falling most of the day. It has extended over the northern and central portion of the State, with a prospect of rain in the South.

The steamer China sailed to-day for Panama.

Peremptory Mandate.

San Francisco, March 2.—In the suit of the Spring Valley Water Works vs Monroe Ashbury, auditor of the city and county of San Francisco, Judge Dwinelle to-day made an order that a writ of peremptory mandate issue as prayed for in the plaintiff's petition. The amount involved is about $10,000, for supplying water for public purposes.

More Rain.

Sacramento, March 2.—At 3 o'clock this morning a sharp rain set in with strong southeast wind. It has rained with slight intermission ever since. The rain is quite fine and slow; drifting with the wind and penetrating thoroughly. Still heavily overcast with prospects of more rain.

Later—No rain since 11 A. M. A strong southwest wind dries the ground.

Great rejoicing among the Republicans over Hayes' election.

Going Back to Mexico.

San Francisco, March 2.—It is now reported that Iglesias, the Mexican fugitive Presidential claimant, with his followers now in this city, will leave overland Sunday, via St. Louis, for New Orleans. They will take the steamer of the 6th from there for Vera Cruz. It is understood it is their intention to proceed direct to the City of Mexico, Iglesias having given up hopes of successfully contesting Diaz's supremacy.

Unconstitutional.

In the 12th district court to-day a case was brought by the city against the Spring Valley Water Co., on complaint of H. M. Heyneman that the company had charged him a higher rate for water than was permitted by the provisions of the Roach water bill to regulate prices, passed by the last legislature. Judge Dainger field rendered a decision that the act was unconstitutional.

There has been a fine rain falling al day, but now the wind is fresh from the west and the barometer rising, though still cloudy.

Murder.

At 11 o'clock last night a murder was committed in the upper story of the New York House, No. 310 Market street. A gardener named Joseph Bushby cut and instantly killed Daniel McInerny, a blacksmith who formerly kept a shop on Powell street near Ellis. McInerny and a man named Yates had been occupying a room for some time in the house named, and Bushby and Barney Farrell occupy a room adjoining. Bushby and McInerny had been angrily discussing the political question during the evening and continued the dispute after retiring, the partition being very slight between the rooms. Soon McInerny rose and went into the hall and a moment after cried out he was killed. He died in a few moments. He was found to have been stabbed in the groin, and Bushby acknowledged the cutting, saying deceased came to his room and attacked him. No one saw the deed done.

Threatened Suicide.

San Francisco, March 2.—This evening Mrs. Thos. W. Smith, residing at 807 Franklin street, Oakland, received by mail a letter from her husband, to the effect that he was about to commit suicide, as he was no assistance to her. Nothing has been heard of Smith since Tuesday, when he left home to go to his business as usual. It is surmised he has drowned himself in the bay. He is said to have been a man of correct habits, and financial troubles are thought to have been the cause of the rash act. He was employed in the custom house in this city some time ago, and afterwards engaged in the business of canvassing for a sewing machine agency, at which he was not successful. He has been married only about six months.

Indicted—A Good Day for Poker.

San Francisco, March 1.—A dispatch from Salinas, Monterey county, to-day says the grand jury has submitted its report, finding two indictments against Wm. H. Rumsey, deputy tax collector. The other cases were postponed until the next session of the grand jury.

Detectives Noyes and Davis have returned to the city from Monterey. They report everything quiet at Salinas. Indictments were found by the grand jury against Rumsey for embezzlement. It is reported the grand jury elicited some very interesting testimony from Tax Collector Castro last Tuesday, to the effect that Louis Leiss told him (Castro) that County Judge Webb won $2,000 in a game of poker at one sitting, from Deputy Collector Rumsey.

Fire.

Placerville, March 2.—At 1 o'clock this morning a fire began in the gun shop of H. Fallen. It soon communicated to the buildings each side and extended to the theater on the east and the tenth building on the west. The buildings, including the theater, were consumed. Continuous rain prevented further spread of the flames; no insurance.

Fatal Accident.

Truman Wilcox, at 8 o'clock last night, while passing from his store to his residence, the night being very dark, slipped off the bridge and fell ten feet, striking in such a manner as to break his neck.

Postponed.

Sacramento, March 2.—The race between Occident and Bodine was postponed till March 9th, on account of the weather.

A Desperado.

Santa Cruz, March 2.—A dispatch says a man named John Cantwell, recently discharged from jail, got on a spree and stabbed an Indian, inflicting probably fatal wounds. He started to run a muck through the town, but was arrested before doing much more.

Rain set in early this morning, with indications of a good supply.

Suicide.

A special from Bloomfield, California, says Samuel C. Magune was found in his shop this morning with his throat cut. The coroner's jury verdict was suicide. He is supposed to have been dead since Tuesday night.

HAYES DECLARED ELECTED.

An All-Night Session.

Turbulent Scenes in the House.

Revolutionary Resolutions and Exciting Debates.

Senate.

Washington, March 1.

At 10:50 a message from the House announced the action on the Vermont case, and the Senate immediately repaired to the hall of the House.

Upon returning the President announced the objection to Wisconsin would be read. The secretary read the objection.

Cameron, of Wisconsin, submitted the following: Resolved, That the vote of Daniel L. Downs as elector of the State of Wisconsin, be counted together with the other nine electoral votes of that State, the objections made thereto to the contrary notwithstanding. The resolution was agreed to by a vote of 101 without debate and without roll call. The secretary was directed to notify the House.

House.

Wood then raised a point of order that the House must consider the Vermont objections and Poppleton's proposition was out of order.

Caulfield said he was correct unless there was an impediment in the way. Springer had yesterday offered objections together with the certificate which the Vice President refused to open.

Hooker argued against the point of order and for the admission of the second certificate.

Regan supported the point. He regretted that where his side had good objection to the electoral count any other could be made which would not command respect of the House.

The Speaker said, with my best respect for all parties concerned, the Chair considers that a great mistake and wrong was committed yesterday in the joint session of the two houses in this that the presiding officer refused to receive even for opening, reading and information a package which had all the surrounding of an authentic paper in respect to an electoral vote of the State of Vermont. The Chair does not think in that any aspect of the case he would be called upon to rule that the action of the presiding officer of the joint convention yesterday was wrong. He does not think he possesses the power, nor does he believe in a technical sense the action of the convention can be reviewed in this House in the manner proposed, and yet there is above all a fact on which this matter rests; that fact is, whether this House should have possession of this paper to that extent. To that extent the Chair thinks that the resolution of the gentleman from Illinois, Caulfield, is in order. While the Speaker was delivering this opinion there was a subsidence of the uproar which had been increasing little by little during the day, but as soon as he had got through, the noise and confusion began to prevail, and in a short time the storm had increased to a gale.

Field—The rule or law of the Commons of England had gained the liberties of the English people, which has made the Anglo Saxon race the glory of the earth by standing on the smallest question that concerned their liberties; so the House should not give up one jot or tittle of its rights. It was the duty of President of the Senate, when that paper was before him, to submit the question, if he had any doubts about it, to the two houses; and the only remedy now was to invite the clerk to open the paper in presence of the two houses. If there were two returns from Vermont they should go to the electoral commission. He appealed to members to deal with the question not as Democrats or Republicans, but as guardians of the rights of the House in the electoral contest. In reply to a question by Cate, he said there was no time fixed by law in which the certificate must be filed. It is not fixed by law. Field continued, declaring the electoral law repealed the provision that all certificates should be in by the first Wednesday in February, and that the Vermont certificate had been delivered in presence of both houses to the President of the Senate by Hewitt. Was it for him to reject it? Are representatives of the people to submit to that? Are Republicans to submit to it? If you do, look out for '81. Let this House put down its heel at once and forever on the doctrine that the President of the Senate is anything more than a presiding officer and guardian of these credentials until they are opened; and that it is his duty to open them and submit to the two houses every question.

Debate being closed and the question being on the resolution of Poppleton, Knott moved an amendment that the House request that the package tendered by Hewitt to the President of the Senate yesterday, be opened by the President of the Senate in presence of the two houses, and if found to be such certificate, the same shall be submitted to-morrow with the certificate read in presence of the two houses, to the electoral commission for its judgment and decision, and that the Senate be requested to make a like order requiring the President of the Senate to open such package in the presence of the two houses, and that until such order be made the House will not be ready to meet the Senate and proceed to count the votes.

As the vote progressed on this resolution, and as there was an apparent prospect of its having a majority, the most intense excitement prevailed throughout the hall. Conservative members conversed with each other in groups, and expressed generally a conviction that the adoption of the resolution would precipitate anarchy and revolution. At the close of the roll call, a rumor prevailed that the resolution was carried, but gradually the members who had been out when their names were called, or who had withheld their votes, rose, and, in response to the second call, responded "No." Gloom was dissipated and gave place to a very perceptible feeling of relief. Finally the vote was announced—yeas 116; nays 148.

Lane moved to reconsider the vote.

The point was raised that under the operations of the previous question such a motion was not yet in order, but the Speaker decided to entertain the motion.

Hall moved to table the motion to reconsider; agreed to 17 to 80.

Wood offered an amendment that the vote of Elector Sollace be not counted.

Walling moved to lay it on the table.

The point was made that the motion to lay on the table was not in order, as this was the main question on which the vote must be taken under the electoral law.

In course of the discussion Wilson, of Iowa, declared if the House intended to execute the law, it would be absolutely necessary to adopt the resolution cutting off all filibustering.

Walling replied when fraud is law, filibustering is patriotism.

Hancock—Traitors never practice patriotism.

The Speaker overruled the point of order, but the motion was rejected.

Hopkins then offered an amendment to the resolution just rejected, except that it omitted the clause as to the count not being proceeded with.

Walling moved to reconsider, [illegible] was a dilatory motion.

The Speaker overruled the point and entertained the motion to reconsider, which was rejected, yeas 64, nays 163.

Question recurred on Wood's amendment as substitute that the vote of Sollace be not counted.

Caulfield interposed a point, which was overruled by the chair. He then insisted on having the original resolution of Poppleton's read, but it was overruled by the Speaker, stating the original resolution was not now before the House, and the vote proceeded.

The substitute was adopted—yeas 210, nays 22. Republicans deeming it best policy to vote for it.

Another dilatory motion to reconsider was made by O'Brien and tabled, yeas 171, nays 56.

Question recurred on adoption of the resolution as amended.

Vance, of Ohio, moved to lay it on the table; lost—Yeas 53, nays 181.

Another motion to reconsider was made by Money, and tabled; yeas 170, nays 56.

The House voted on Poppleton's resolution at 9:30 as amended, that the vote of Sollace be not counted.

Walling endeavored to interpose further delay in the shape of a request that he be excused from voting, which the Speaker refused to entertain, and an appeal from the ruling of the Chair which the Speaker also refused to entertain. The roll call resulted yeas 205, nays 26, so the decision of the House was that the Sollace vote be not counted. There was but one more motion left for debate and that was to reconsider the last vote.

Clark of Missouri, made it, and it was tabled: yeas 177, nays 59. This point was reached at 1:45 so that the House had spent over 12 hours in the struggle.

O'Brien then attempted for an order that the Senate be notified, the intention being to spend a couple of hours more over that, but the Speaker refused to recognize him for that purpose, and said the Chair has allowed a vote on every legal motion and now the House is brought to the following paragraph of the law: When the Houses have acted they shall immediately again meet and the presiding officer shall then announce the question, submitted. The Chair must notify the Senate. [Applause.]

O'Brien—Therefore I offer his order.

Speaker—The Chair cannot entertain it.

Springer—I desire to submit a proposition that the President of the Senate be requested to bring with him the duplicate return should he object—

Cox—There is no use in endeavoring to prevent the Speaker counting in Hayes.

Speaker—Gentleman need not object, as the Chair has no authority to receive any such proposition.

At this time 11 Senators entered the hall, and without delay the electoral votes of Vermont were counted for Hayes and Wheeler. The certificates of Virginia and West Virginia were announced for Tilden and Hendricks. Then came the last State—Wisconsin—with 10 votes for Hayes and Wheeler.

The certificates having been read, Lynde presented an objection signed by Senators Barnum, McDonald, Kelly, Cooper and Johnson, and Representatives Lynde, Burchard, Phillips, Tucker, Springer, Rice, Vance, Young and many others, to counting the vote of Downs, because he held the office of pension surgeon and examining surgeon when he voted; that Downs was not therefore duly appointed an elector for said State, and his vote cannot be constitutionally counted.

The Senate at 11:25 retired.

Mills then rose to a privilege of question, which he sent up to be read.

Luttrell interposed with a motion for recess, but subsequently withdrew it to allow Mills' resolution to be read. It was:

Whereas, On the 7th November, 1876, an election was held in the several States for electors for President and Vice President, at which election the majority of electors favorable to the election of Samuel J. Tilden for President and Thomas A. Hendricks for Vice President, were duly and constitutionally elected; and

Whereas, The returns of said election in the States of Louisiana and Florida were duly made to officers in said States, whose duty it was under the law to aggregate the votes and certify the names of electors; and

Whereas, Said returning officers willfully, corruptly, and fraudulently certified to the election of persons who were defeated at the ballot box; and

Whereas, The Governors of said States falsely and fraudulently gave certificates of election to said persons who were defeated, and refused them to those who were elected; and

Whereas, Said false and fraudulent certificates were referred to a committee to investigate and report to Congress the true and constitutional electoral votes of said States; and

Whereas, The committee refused to investigate the question as to who were the true constitutional electors, chosen by the qualified voters of said State; and

Whereas, It appears in the count of the electoral votes in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives that on account of said frauds in suppressing the true votes and certifying false votes, Sam'l J. Tilden, although having received a majority of the [illegible] boxes in the several States, has not a majority in said joint count of the electors appointed in accordance with the terms of the constitution; and

Whereas, R. B. Hayes has not received a majority of the constitutional electors, duly and legally appointed, and a contingency provided for by the constitution having happened, it becomes the duty of the House of Representatives to proceed immediately to the election of a President of the United States for the ensuing four years; therefore

Resolved, By the House of Representatives that said House will proceed immediately, in obedience to the constitution, to choose a President from the persons having the highest number of votes, not exceeding three or less of those voted for as President.

Lynde was recognized by the Speaker and offered a resolution that the vote of Downs be not counted.

Mills then offered a substitute.

A message from the Senate announced the objection had not been sustained. The announcement was greeted with a very general clapping of hands on the Republican side and in the galleries. This demonstration annoyed members on the Democratic side, who demanded the clearing of the galleries.

The Speaker directed the lobbies be cleared, but submitted to the House the question as to clearing the galleries, and there was a very decided majority against it.

Lynde then moved a recess till to-morrow morning; rejected—90 to 158.

At 12:20 Wood, of New York made a proposition that the House take recess till 10 o'clock to-morrow, and that at 1 o'clock the vote shall be taken on the main question; but there were objections to it, and a scene of uproar and confusion ensued, lasting several minutes, in course of which Blackburn exclaimed that Friday was a day to be observed in a fit way to witness the consummation of the villainy and scandal of this proceeding, and O'Brien and Wood, of New York, as high priests of the Republican party.

Wood then declared if his proposition was not assented to, he would never leave the hall until the count was finished.

At [illegible] o'clock the House debate on the objection commenced.

Mills made a speech in favor of his resolution, in which he characterized the representatives of the American people as cowering in the dust. The people, he said, dare maintain their rights, but the people's representatives dare not do so. Their fathers, if they could look down upon them from heaven, would be ashamed to see them cowering before a despot, who only commanded an army of about 18,000 men, half of whom sympathized with the Democratic party. The whole speech was in this vein, but it attracted little attention.

Blackburn said: To-day is Friday, and on that day the Saviour of the world suffered crucifixion between thieves; on this Friday constitutional government, judicial honesty, fair dealing, manhood and decency suffer crucifixion among a number of thieves. It was on that day that Presidential fraud received his nomination at the hands of a party convention. It was on that day, as it received, that every determination of labor by the blistered perjurers and miscreants who constitute the majority of this commission have been promulgated. It is on that day you propose to consummate your iniquity; but the people will at length rise to punish, even perhaps in blood, the perpetrators of all the scoundrelism and villainy of this proceeding.

Williams, of Wisconsin, replied to Blackburn, saying there was no day more fitting than hangman's day, and no hour more fitting than that at which graveyards yawn, for gobbling to death the bastard party of political reform which had vexed the eyes of good men for the last twelve months.

The best of good feeling prevailed among members, however, at the close of [illegible] through all the excitements of the day.

At 3:30 A. M., debate having closed, a lead discussion arose as to the position which Mills' resolution should occupy. It was suggested by Wood that if it were withdrawn and offered hereafter as an independent proposition he would vote for it, but that as a substitute for a resolution in regard to Wisconsin he should have to vote against it. Of course it would only be accepted by Mills if the House would agree to vote upon it before the Senate came back. That was objected to on both sides. It was contended by Brown of Ky., Harrison and others that it was in contravention of the electoral commission law. Finally Mills' resolution was excluded on a point of order, with an intimation by the Speaker that Mills might afterwards move its adoption under suspension of the rules, but some Democrats remarked that would be after the election of Hayes. The count was then proceeded with, and at 3:55 A. M. the amendment offered by Kasson that Downs of Wisconsin be counted, was rejected; yeas 79, nays 180, and the original proposition that he be not counted agreed to without division. The Senate was notified and at 4 o'clock A. M. a message was received from the House announcing the action on the Wisconsin case. The Senate immediately left its chamber for the House to complete the count. At 4 A. M. the hall was prepared for final action of the Senate, and as soon as that body entered at 4:05 A. M., and all the members were seated, the action of the respective houses on the Wisconsin question was read, and the ten votes of Wisconsin were announced for Hayes and Wheeler. The presiding officer said this concludes the count of the 38 States of the Union. The tellers will now ascertain and deliver the result of the votes to the presiding officer.

[illegible] the tellers having delivered the statement, the presiding officer expressed a hope that on the announcement nothing would mar the dignity of the proceedings so reputable to the American people, and so worthy of the respect of the world. He then said the whole number of electors appointed to vote for President and Vice President of the United States was 369, of which a majority is 185. The state of the vote for President as delivered by the tellers and as determined under the act of Congress of January 29th, on this subject is, for Rutherford B. Hayes, 185 votes, and for Samuel J. Tilden, 184 votes. The state of the vote for Vice President of the United States as delivered by the tellers, as determined under the same act of Congress is for W. A. Wheeler, 185 votes, and Thomas A. Hendricks, 184 votes. Therefore I do announce that Rutherford B. Hayes, of the State of Ohio, having received a majority of the whole number of electoral votes, is duly elected President of the United States for four years, commencing the 4th day of March, 1877; that William A. Wheeler, of the State of New York, having received a majority of the whole number of electoral votes, is duly elected Vice President of the United States for four years, commencing on the 4th day of March, 1877. This announcement, together with a list of the votes, will be entered on the journals of both houses.

The count of the votes being completed and the result determined, the joint meeting of the two houses is dissolved. The Senate will now retire to its chamber. The Senate retired.

The House immediately, at 4:10 A. M., adjourned, and the flag, which has never been down since it was hoisted over the halls of both houses on the 1st of February last as a sign of their being in session, was lowered.

The Senate, upon return, adjourned with three times three for Hayes.

Senate.

Washington, March 2.

Morrill submitted a resolution authorizing the appointment of a committee to make arrangements for the inauguration on the 5th; agreed to.

Morrill, Howe and McDonald were appointed committee on inaugural ceremonies.

West, from the conference committee on the postoffice appropriation bill, reported that the committee has been unable to agree, and moved the Senate insist on its amendments and ask for a new conference; so ordered. In submitting the report he said, the points of difference were in regard to appropriations for the transportation of mails on rail roads, the Senate having increased that amount from $900,000 to $965,000. The Senate conferees were willing to reduce the amount, but the House conferees would not agree thereto. The Senate also appropriated $500,000 for the China and Japan mail service, and a like amount for the Brazilian mail service, but the House conferees would not concur in that appropriation, and the Senate conferees offered to reduce the amount to $300,000 for each route; but that was not acceptable to the House conferees.

Morrill, from the committee on finance, reported favorably the Senate bill relating to the production of grape brandy as a substitute for the House bill relating to the production of fruit brandy, and to punish frauds connected with the same; passed.

White submitted a resolution calling upon the Secretary of War to furnish the Senate a copy of the final report of operations of troops in the Modoc country, under Gen. Gillem; agreed to.

McDonald, at his own request, was excused from service as a member of the special committee to make arrangements for inauguration, and McCreery was appointed to fill the vacancy.

House.

After prayer by the chaplain, Walling demanded the reading of the journal in full.

The Speaker stated the journal clerk had been taken sick, and the journal had not been completed.

Wilson moved to suspend the rules so as to dispense with the reading of the journal. The Democrats, by declining to vote, left the House without a quorum, and the Speaker ordered a call of the House.

[illegible] of the journal was [illegible] nearly all the members were shaking bills in front of the Speaker's desk. A number for the payment of clerks and pages were put through under suspension of the rules.

Waddell moved to suspend the rules and adopt a resolution that Wells and Anderson, Casanave and Kenner, members of the Louisiana returning board, in custody of the House, are in the judgment of the House peers of the majority of the electoral commission who have inaugurated persons whom they have jointly helped into the office of President of the United States over the votes of a large majority of the legal voters of the country.

Conger said if it was necessary to exhibit such a specimen of spite he had no objection.

Motion to suspend the rules and adopt the resolution was defeated, there being only 13 votes in the affirmative.

Walton made a conference report on the deficiency bill and explained it. He said that by the conference report the bill showed an increase of $1,152,000 over the amount appropriated by the House, including an item of $500,000 for deficiency in the pay of the navy, and in an item of [illegible] for deficiency in the department of justice; report agreed to.

Clymer made a conference report on the military academy bill; agreed to.

Atkins, from the committee on army, moved to suspend the rules and pass the army appropriation bill. He stated that this session is so far advanced that it is the only practical method of dealing with the bill. The bill was read. It provides, among other things, for the reduction of the cavalry regiments to eight, artillery regiments to four, infantry regiments to fifteen; that officers [illegible] regiments may be [illegible] other regiments [illegible] respective arms, and that any officer on his own application may be ordered a discharge, with one year's pay for every [illegible] years' service, [illegible] of commission; [illegible] tion in the service on account of color; also that there shall be no new enlistments in the army till the number enlisted shall be reduced to [illegible]; also that no part of the appropriation shall be used in support of the claims of either government in Louisiana or Florida until such governments shall have been duly recognized by Congress. Money will do the Business.

London, March 1.—It is reported from Constantinople that the Russian charge d'affaires is very active, and as Russian influence is paramount at the Palace, it is thought by no means improbable Russia might, with the expenditure of a comparatively small fraction of what war would cost, be able to obtain all she wants in the most pacific way, or produce such confusion as would justify almost any step on her part.

England vs. Turkey.

London, March 2.—In the House of Commons, Sir Stafford Northcote, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said it was true Tosson Bey and eight others were acquitted by the commission appointed to investigate the atrocities in Bulgaria. The secretary of the English legation at Constantinople considered their acquittal objectionable and contrary to the evidence, and returned to Constantinople. The government approved his conduct. It appears improbable there will be any more trials.

SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 3, 1877.

THE END OF THE STRUGGLE.

The work of the Electoral Commission is done, and the count is finished. Governor Hayes is declared President of the United States, and will be peacefully inaugurated. In business, anxiety will give place to confidence, suspense to activity, and, we trust, prostration to prosperity. The peaceable solution of the difficulties which surrounded the settlement of the succession in the first office of the Republic is an achievement that will shed lustre on the American name. Judged by the history of other countries, the dangers through which the country has passed are not less than those of the dark days of 1861. We remember no case in the history of European monarchies, wherein so great difficulties, arising out of a question of succession, were overcome by any means short of the last appeal, the arbitrament of the sword. That they have been overcome peaceably in America, is due to the fact that underneath the strong partisan feelings that make our political contests sharp and severe, there lies in the American a great substratum of loyalty to law. The law is the American sovereign, and the allegiance of its subjects is as intense and as constant as ever was the allegiance of subject to personal sovereign. The American republican, no matter by what party name he may be known, acknowledges the absolute authority of that impersonal, intangible, but enduring head of government, The Law of the Land. In this devoted allegiance to a power that never dies consists at once the strength and the freedom of American institutions and American citizenship.

STATE RIGHTS VS. CENTRALIZATION.

Among the curious effects of the Presidential contest which has just closed, one which has been remarked upon heretofore, is that the Democracy have been driven, by force of circumstances, to abandon the extreme State rights doctrines which have always constituted the central idea of the party. Until the events of the last three months placed that party in new relations to the subject, it was the cherished theory of Democratic politicians and statesmen, that the permanency of republican institutions could be assured only by maintaining the sovereignty and equality of the States in their corporate capacity and their relative influence in the government. From the days of Thomas Jefferson to the close of the year of grace, 1876, the rallying cry of Democracy has been, State supremacy and narrow limitation of the national idea. The inalienable rights of the people were to be maintained through State rule; the nation must be nothing more than an alliance or confederation of sovereign States; the representation in the general government must be purely State representation, and national administration must touch only such matters as were expressly delegated to the confederation for the maintenance of the general interests of the alliance. This was the democracy of Thomas Jefferson, of John C. Calhoun—a disciple greatly the superior of his master—and of the entire Democratic school of politics, till the contest just now closed, caused the scales to fall from the eyes of the party.

It is a trite saying that an extreme is always succeeded by an opposite extreme, in matters of opinion. The time for the opposite extreme to follow the radical State rights views of the Democracy was long delayed, but it has come at last. It has come, not by the gradual processes that usually accomplish such results, but by a conversion so sudden and so complete, that the order, "about face!" which turned the face of the entire army of the Democracy toward national centralization, has scarcely yet ceased to echo along the lines. We have within the last few days called attention to the astonishing alacrity with which the Democratic organ in this city, edited by a State rights lawyer, has fallen into line against State supremacy. And now we have the State rights Democrat,—what a sad misnomer now!—one of the very ablest papers of the party, advocating the abrogation of State influence and State lines in the election of President of the United States. And here is one of the reasons assigned for desiring this change:

> It is argued that the equality of States will be distributed by permitting a direct vote, and to preserve that State equality the present mode must be continued. Equality of rights, among citizens of the United States, no matter what State they live in, is the true equality to be established and perpetuated. If the equality of States as organizations, is incompatible with and destructive of the equality of the citizens of the several States then the State equality idea should and must give way. There is no valid reason why a voter residing in Rhode Island should have any more power in the choice of a President than a voter in the State of New York. At present one voter in Rhode Island has as much power as five hundred voters in New York. This is not an equality of rights, but an inequality, at least if the quality of the right is similar, the quantity of it is much out of proportion. This inequality comes from the fact that the electoral college is in part fashioned after the United States Senate, in which Rhode Island has as much as New York. In the senatorial part of this same constitution an amendment is needed; but that we are not now discussing although many of the reasons for changing the mode of electing a President, apply with equal force to the other.

Upon the Republican party, always occupying the true conservative position of respect for the constitutional rights of the States and maintenance of the national theory of the general government, may yet devolve the patriotic duty of preserving the independence of the States, and the proper and safe balance between the local and the general government. Republicans, gird up your loins and buckle on your armor to defend the rights of the States against the centralizing policy of the Democracy.

We publish this morning a communication from George A. Steel, Esq., Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, to certain gentlemen of this city touching the proposed ratification meeting of Republicans. By some mischance the communication to which Mr. Steel's is an answer, failed to reach this office. We appreciate the motive of Mr. Steel in discouraging the proposed demonstration; but at the same time we can not agree with him as to the impolicy of holding the meeting. Republicans, we think, have reason to feel gratified at the result of the election, and it is fit and proper they should meet and exchange congratulations. There is no reason why such a meeting should be conducted in a manner to wound or offend any person of any party. A meeting to crow over the defeat of the adverse party, we should join Mr. Steel in discountenancing, but a meeting for orderly and decent congratulation among those who have won a hard fought battle, it seems to us, is never out of order; and it is especially in order in this case, wherein the victory is simply a triumph of law—the American's monarch—and a grand illustration of the power of American patriotism over the passions of a vigorous and energetic race of freemen. In this aspect of the case the Democracy themselves, though they have lost in the struggle, deserve to be congratulated on the sturdy good faith with which their leading men restrained the revolutionary purposes of the factious extremists in their party and made a peaceable settlement possible. By all means let Republicans meet and celebrate in becoming manner the happy outcome of the contest, not with denunciation of the defeated, but with congratulation for the victory of law, order, patriotism, Republicanism and Gov. Hayes.

President Grant has telegraphed General Augur at New Orleans that troops must not be used for political purposes. That is good. He has telegraphed Packard that the policy of keeping up State governments by the army must be abandoned. That is better. That policy, besides being unconstitutional, has been full of mischief to the nation, to the States, and to the Republican party. Instead of fostering a spirit of conciliation and mutual confidence between the Northern and Southern people, it has engendered strife and bitterness. Instead of establishing order in the States directly concerned, it has brought about repeated collisions and conflicts. Instead of building up a Republican party in the South, it has done much to solidify the South against that party. It was a fatal statesmanship and a suicidal party policy from the first, and its abandonment is a just, though a rather late, recognition of the true relation between the General Government and the States.

A letter from Amity informs us that our information concerning the disturbance in the Baptist Church at that place was altogether incorrect, so far as it related to the saloon keeper who was stated to have created the disturbance. The fact, he says, is, that the saloon keeper having been invited by the minister, Mr. Sails, to go to church, consented, and accordingly went. His appearance in the church, being an unusual thing, some young persons who were in the habit of attending church thought it a proper matter for them to laugh at, and proceeded to give vent to their risibles. The letter says it was these boys, and not the saloon keeper that were requested by the minister to keep order, and that Mr. Sails testified before the justice of the peace before the matter was investigated that he did not know the saloon keeper was in the church at the time. We make the correction cheerfully, as we desire to do injustice to no one in the premises.

The Willamette Farmer scores eight full years, and enters upon its ninth a better paper and better prospects than ever before. It asks, and justly claims, the united support of the farmers.

The letter of "Farmer," who writes from Wasco county, is unavoidably crowded out at present.

THE OLD PRINCETON TAVERN.

One starting from New York on Tuesday morning would arrive in Philadelphia, if no accident occurred, on Thursday morning. Wednesday night he would pass in Princeton at the "Sign of the College." Here the travelers found a billiard table, and the host was celebrated for his hot punch and his fine wines—a serious temptation to the collegians; but they were kept well under the eyes of the authorities, and the tradition is that they very seldom transgressed. The name of this early Princeton innkeeper has never come to the surface in modern times, but some of his successors have been known all over the country, as every traveler between New York and Philadelphia passed a night under his hospitable roof. John Gifford, in the last century, was succeeded by his brother, Archer Gifford, and he by "Lord Joline," as James K. Paulding dubbed him. In 1808 Washington Irving and Paulding were in Princeton, waiting upon a friend who was about to marry one of the village belles, and they doubtless made Joline their headquarters. A few months after, they published that masterly description of the college in "Salmagundi." Its epigrammatic brevity permits its republication here:

"Princeton College—professors wear boots—students famous for their love of a jest—set the college on fire and burn the professors; an excellent joke but not worth repeating—Mem. American students very much addicted to burning colleges—reminds me of a good story, nothing at all to the purpose—two societies in the college—good notion—encourages emulation and makes little boys fight;—students famous for their eating and erudition—saw two at the tavern who had just got their allowance of spending money—laid it all out in a supper, got fuddled and cursed the professors for nincoms."—Scribner for March.

MOHAIR WOOL!

[From the Mercury.]

Quite a number of our Oregon farmers are engaging in the raising of Angora goats, and in each case where they have paid proper attention to the grading of their flocks and their fleeces, it has proved remunerative. Some time last fall Mr. Charles Claggett, of this county, sent some sample lots of wool from his Angoras to the Farr Alpaca Company, at Holyoke, Mass., for which he received prices ranging from 25 to 90 cents per lb. The fleeces from Mr. Claggett's thoroughbreds are thus spoken of by the Farr Manufacturing Company: "Samples you send us are very nice. Such stock as this when it gets its full growth will never go begging for a purchaser." The same company, in speaking of the proper manner to manage this wool, says: "Pack the kid fleeces by themselves, by all means. Wash your animals well before shearing, as a good, clean fleece shows to advantage, while on the other hand a dirty, dingy fleece is apt to be put down for less than its real value." As quite a number of citizens are engaging in this class of wool growing, these hints from a company having large experience in the matter may be of some service to them.

The former residence of Edwin Forrest near Philadelphia, now a home for indigent actors, is a strange place. The house is a palace in gorgeousness; the furniture is beautiful and expensive; the library, the pictures and the statuary are such as are seldom seen in private collections. All this is enjoyed by two old and infirm actors and a superintendent, for the benefits of the establishment have not been availed of by any except the two mentioned. Celia Logan, who recently visited it, says that their chief trouble is to kill time. Forrest's will orders the erection of a miniature theater, in which the inmates of the home may entertain themselves and others. The endowment is sufficient to maintain a large number of persons, and it is supposed that in time the institution will become filled.

THE PROPOSED RATIFICATION MEETING.

PORTLAND, March 3, 1877.

MESSRS. STEDMAN, BARR, MARVIN, KENNEDY, NORTHRUP, MORGAN, BURTON and others—Gentlemen: Your communication of the 2d has been received. After fully considering the suggestions therein contained, would say we have just passed through one of the most trying and bitter political contests ever experienced in this country, both parties having exerted themselves to the uttermost, and owing to the fact that the contest has been long, close and exciting, bitter partisan feelings having been aroused in consequence, and the business interests of the country greatly prostrated, and while all good citizens heartily rejoice over the final result, I would, in behalf of the committee, discountenance any display as a "party move." If, however, the citizens, irrespective of party, wish to meet and ratify the result (in the election of Rutherford B. Hayes as President of the United States) to congratulate themselves upon the settlement of this heated controversy, upon the restoration of commercial confidence the general prosperity of our country, it will not only meet with the approval of the committee, but all good citizens.

G. A. STEEL,
Chairman State Central Committee.

EAST PORTLAND AND VICINITY.

An incident occurred this week at the State asylum worthy of prompt notice. Mrs. Dr. Nottage presented her liege lord with a bouncing boy. All are happy over the joyful event.

Capt. B. F. Henness has four men employed helping him to clear off and improve his ten acre lot on the east side of Mount Tabor. He intends to set out a large amount of small fruits and make the place an attractive home.

Purser Carney, of the Gussie Telfair, came very near losing his youngest child this week with the diphtheria and spinal complaint. Under C. H. Raffety's careful treatment, and good nursing, the danger is thought to be over.

We are informed that the young man from Yamhill county, from whose face a large fibrous tumor was removed a few days ago, by Dr. R. S. Parker, is doing well. The operation was regarded as most important and skillful.

The insane asylum, under Dr. J. C. Hawthorne's proprietorship, continues a model institution. The number of inmates is larger than usual. Mr. John Kenworthy has been the successful warden for over twelve years. Mrs. Kenworthy, the matron, has a large experience in such institutions in California and elsewhere.

Rev. C. V. Anthony's lecture on Wednesday evening last, at the M. E. church, on the "Sandwich Islands," was one of the most popular we have heard for a long time. It abounded in facts both amusing and instructive. At the close, on motion of Dr. R. S. Parker, a vote of thanks was passed by the audience and an earnest request made that Mr. Anthony give another lecture on the same subject at an early day. He promptly assented to do so.

Yesterday was the thirty-fifth anniversary of Rev. and Mrs. A. Laubach's wedded life. They returned home about 2 o'clock P. M. to find the parsonage in possession of the ladies, who had neatly set a table loaded with refreshments of all kinds. After the dinner, Dr. Dillon made a congratulatory address, presenting, in behalf of the ladies, a handsome cloak to Mr. Laubach, and various other articles to the bride. Mr. Laubach responded with appropriateness and deep feeling. Then followed other impromptu exercises, in which Messrs. Royal, E. O. Corson and J. E. Stansberry participated largely.

THE BRIDGE QUESTION.

PORTLAND, March 2, 1877.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The Evening Standard in its issue of the 28th ult., refers to a petition which is being circulated, addressed to the county court of Multnomah county, for the building of a bridge across the Willamette river. The article states that "every prominent man in the community has affixed his name, with but three or four exceptions, and nearly one thousand names have been already obtained."

If, Mr. Editor, the facts are as above stated, (viz., that every prominent man in this community, with but three or four exceptions signed this petition) would it not be advisable and expedient to have a "minority report" on this bridge matter. I for one fail to see wherein the taxpayers of Portland and those on the outskirts of Multnomah county are to derive benefits from a bridge across the Willamette, adequate to the burdensome tax which will be imposed upon their property. If the citizens of East Portland and the adjacent country want a bridge to enhance the value of their property, and as a convenience for getting to and from Portland, why not associate themselves together, or organize a joint stock company for that purpose. It is claimed by those conversant with the subject that a bridge will pay good interest on its cost, and there can be no doubt but the value of property in East Portland would be greatly appreciated, but in the way proposed by the petition, it would be at the expense of Portland, where most of the taxes would be collected. I presume no one would claim that a bridge would increase the population or trade of Portland, but on the other hand would it not have a tendency to decrease the population of Portland, reduce rents, and thus depreciate the value of property on this side of the river. In the building of a bridge in the way proposed by this petition, I think taxpayers of Portland would be taxing themselves to depreciate their own property. Our taxes and street improvements cost us enough already, and I think, Mr. Editor, a large majority of the taxpayers of Portland will take the same view of this bridge matter that I do, when they give it due consideration.

The investigating committee of the M. E. church, which held its session here last week, acquitted one J. W. Douglas of the crime of profane swearing, because he did it under "pressure."

The Laurean and Eutaxian literary societies of the State University will give their first entertainment at Lane's Hall on to-morrow evening, which promises to be a literary treat to all who attend.

We have a traveling religious tract peddler in town, who entered the house of one of our citizens one day this week, and asked permission to leave some tracts. The lady of the house readily consented, but very distinctly informed him that the "heel" must be toward the door.

OREGON.

The Gazette says diphtheria has at last made its dread appearance in that city.

The operatic fever has broken out among the Coos Bay Indians, and they are entertaining the "Bostons" with the various dances of the red man, and charging therefor 50 cents admission. The performers appear in costume—paint and breechclouts. It is not stated whether there is good order in the galleries or not.

On the 26th of last month the following officers of Applegate Grange were installed by Worthy Past Master Chapel, of that grange: Wm. Ray, M.; Z. Chapel, O.; John O'Brien, L.; Wm. Basey, S.; L. Rose, A. S.; Wm. Pevnoll, T.; Wm. Harriott, S.; Wm. McGee, G. K.; Mrs. Sarah O'Brien, C.; Miss Louisa Miller, P.; Mrs. Linda Rose, F.; Miss Minnie Gall, L. A. S.

The Corvallis Gazette of yesterday says: Mrs. J. L. Cowan, of Lebanon, (daughter of Mr. W. B. Hamilton of this place) who had been on a ten days' visit to relatives in this place, with her three children, started home on Monday of last week. The second child, a little girl, was taken with the diphtheria before she reached Albany, on the boat, and died Thursday morning following. The two other children also took the disease after reaching home, but at last accounts were convalescing.

The Corvallis Gazette says: The people of Corvallis have great reason to be proud of their school facilities. Aside from the State Agricultural College, which ranks as one of the educational institutions of the State, we have two district schools of the first grade. On last Monday we made a brief visit to these schools, and found them in a most prosperous condition. The report of the North Corvallis school, taught by Misses M. Elston and A. Dunn, for the last term, shows 105 scholars enrolled; average attendance over 80; average scholarship 90 per cent. We learn from the the directors, that the finances of this school were never before in such a flourishing condition. The last term closed on the 23d and opened again on the 26th of February. The success of this school is very complimentary to the teachers. South Corvallis school, Prof. E. A. Miller, principal, ended February 24 and commenced on the 26th. Number of pupils enrolled last term, 93; average attendance, 69.

THE TERRITORIES.

The amounts received by the Territorial Treasurer of Idaho from the several counties for the quarter ending Dec. 31, 1876, is $10,935 09. The amount received for the corresponding quarter in 1875, was $20,901 92. The falling off, says the Idaho Statesman, is accounted for by the fact that no report has yet been received from Idaho county for this last quarter, and also by the fact that there are large amounts of delinquent taxes that remain uncollected.

The Seattle Tribune has information of an affray at Newcastle, which took place on the night of Feb. 18th: A man by the name of Phil. Thomas, who, according to our correspondent, "with the skill of Sitting Bull, slashed and gashed with a tomahawk the arms and head of another man named James Armstrong," was taken before a so-called Squire Armstrong next day to answer for the offence. There in a private room, apart from the witnesses and would-be spectators, the affair was settled, the defendant, the squire and the constable fixing it up without trial.

Still another case of smallpox has appeared at Seattle. The Dispatch of Thursday notes the case as follows: "In addition to the boy Davis, we learn that L. S. Lovell, who has been canvassing for sewing machines about here, was taken with a mild form of varioloid on Monday night. He was at once ejected from his boarding house and wandered about the streets, trying to get into the pest house till it came time for the Alida to leave for New Tacoma, when he got aboard and went to that place. He put up at Halstead's hotel and, as soon as his malady was known, he had the whole house to himself. He was since removed to a pest house in Commencement Bay and all is tranquil." If we mistake not Lovell formerly resided in Portland.

SWORN STATEMENT OF A
BOSTON DRUGGIST.

Gentlemen,—I hereby certify that I have had Catarrh for ten years, and for the last six years have been a terrible sufferer. I was rendered partially deaf, had buzzing in the head, pains across the temple, dizzy spells, weak and painful eyes, swollen and ulcerated tonsils, hard and constant cough, severe pain across the chest, and every indication of consumption. My head ached all the time. The matter accumulated so rapidly in my head and throat that I could not keep them free. Frequently at night I would spring out of bed, it seemed to me, at the point of suffocation. I would then have recourse to every means in my power to dislodge the mucus from my throat and head before being able to sleep again. For a period of six years my tonsils were ulcerated and so much inflamed that I could with difficulty swallow. I finally consulted an eminent surgeon in regard to an operation on them, but at his request postponed it. The constant inflammation and ulceration in my throat caused by the poisonous matter dropping down from my head had so irritated and inflamed my lungs that I coughed incessantly,—a deep, hard cough. Meanwhile my system began to show the effects of this disease, so that I lost flesh, grew pale, and showed every symptom of an early death by consumption. When matters had reached this stage, or about six months ago, I began the use of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH. After using the first bottle I began to improve rapidly. The first dose seemed to clear my head as I had not known it to be for years. It seemed gradually to arrest the discharges. It stopped my cough in three days. By using it as a gargle I soon reduced the inflammation and swelling of my tonsils, so that they soon ceased to trouble me. The soreness across my chest disappeared, the buzzing noises in my head ceased, my senses of hearing and of seeing were completely restored, and every symptom of disease that had reduced me to the verge of the grave disappeared by the use of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH.

I have been thus explicit because, as a druggist, I have seen a great deal of suffering from Catarrh, and hope to convince many that this is a great remedy.

I am familiar with the treatment of Catarrh as practised by the best physicians, and have consulted the most eminent about my case. I have used every kind of remedy and apparatus that have appeared during a period of six years past and have, while following their use, taken great care of my general health, but obtained no relief or encouragement from any of them.

Since curing myself with SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, I have recommended it in over one hundred cases without a single case of failure, and have in numerous instances received wholesale orders from parties to whom I have sold one bottle. This is the only patent medicine I have ever recommended, never having believed in them before, although constantly engaged in their sale.

Very gratefully yours,
GEORGE F. DINSMORE.

BOSTON, Feb. 23, 1875.

SUFFOLK ss. Feb. 23, 1875.
Then personally appeared the said George F. Dinsmore, and made oath that the foregoing statement by him subscribed is true.
Before me, SETH J. THOMAS,
Justice of the Peace.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENT.

Since the above statement was made I have been rapidly improving in health. I have had no return of the disagreeable symptoms that attended my former sickness, and although affected from time to time with severe colds incidental to the sudden changes in our climate, they have not been sufficient to bring on a return of the disease. My general health has been excellent. I have gained twenty-five pounds and consider myself entirely recovered from a disease that a year ago seemed likely to totally undermine my constitution. Since last February I have consulted with a great many afflicted with Catarrh, and in the hundreds of cases in which I have sold it I have never seen an instance sufficient to shake the confidence I feel in Sanford's Radical Cure for Catarrh.

WHEN WHEAT IS GREEN.

When wheat is green in furrowed fields,
And forest lanes are lined with leaves,
And passion unto pleading yields,
And every mateless maiden grieves
For lack of love, at such a time
My pleasure will be in its prime.

The clouds that keep away the sun,
And cover up the moon at night,
Before the strong March wind will run,
And leave the heavens blue and bright;
The sun will shine upon the sea—
The moon will light the wood for me.

And then, ah then! O, dearest days!
Laburnum branches, thick with bloom,
Will throw their gold on garden ways,
And kiss the windows of my room;
And then the day! How will it be
To live in such felicity?

My brow with blossoms will be bound,
And from my fears I shall be free;
O tardy Time, bring quickly round
The merriest month of all for me!
That I may hear the church boys sing,
And on my finger see the ring!

AN ARAB TOURNAMENT.

(From Gen. McClellan's "Winter on the Nile," in Scribner for March.)

Soon after our arrival, five horses were brought in, richly caparisoned in the Moorish style: powerful Moorish bits with the ring encircling the lower jaw; short stirrups, serving also as spurs; the high saddle, covered with velvet housings, embroidered and fringed with gold; heavy gold fringes on the neck and breast of the horses. All the horses were good, some very fine. Five sons of Sheik Achmet, all clad in Oriental robes of brilliant silks, all wearing the turban, now mounted, and the sport began. It consisted mainly of dashing across the court at full speed, and suddenly bringing up the horses on their haunches, and of riding rapidly around one another in various circles, lunging and parrying with long, light lance-poles, one endeavoring to gain the unguarded flank of another. It was an admirable display of horsemanship, and with the fine carriage of the animals, the superb riding, the rich and graceful robes of the men, and the elegant housings of the horses, formed a remarkable spectacle. It was a scene of another age and of another race, and the first thought that occurred to all of us was that at last we could realize the games that graced the festivals of the Alhambra. Among those who took part were two very marked men who happened to be the best and most daring riders; these were the oldest and the youngest of those who rode. The elder was a powerfully built man of about forty, perhaps five feet eight in height, with an intelligent and very determined countenance, though there was nothing unpleasant in it. The other could not have been more than twenty; light and graceful as possible, with a charming face full of intelligence and good-nature, yet strong and full of courage, he was the beau ideal of a noble young man, while the elder looked like a soldier hardened by many campaigns. The youngster's horse was trained to kneel and lie down and rise again to the sound of a drum, and this was the amusing part of the exhibition. A brace of wild Arabs danced frantically in front of the noble bay, wildly beating their drums until he knelt, and at last stretched himself at full length on the ground, the young sheik keeping his seat until the horse rolled over on his side.

He had left her and stepped out to see a friend between acts. "Why, Edward," said she, when he returned, "there are tears in your eyes!" "Yes, pet," replied he solemnly, "I suppose there are—I saw such a sad sight when I was out." "You did—what was it?" inquired she. "Such a sad sight," continued he, keeping his face away that she might not smell his breath. "I discovered a young man whom I have known for years drinking whisky." "You did?" "Yes, standing right in plain sight before me, partaking deeply and carelessly of the dreadful intoxicating glass." There was a little pause, when the young lady suddenly said: "Edward, was he standing right in front of you?" "Yes, pet," was the reply. There was another pause, when the young lady asked again: "Edward, don't most of the fashionable saloon counters have great, nice mirrors right on the walls behind them?" Edward flushed a little and looked quizzical as he replied that he "believed" they did. And there he permitted the subject to drop.

French miracles are a heavy tax upon human credulity. Marie B., who has always been very good and very sick, left her native village, Arre, where she was known as Sainte Arre, and made a pilgrimage to the shrine of Lourdes. She had been suffering from an incurable illness for seven years. On returning to the village she had a relapse and died. At the hour of burial, while the solemn mass was being celebrated in the church, a strange noise was heard inside the coffin. The lid was wrenched off, and lo! Marie was alive. She was taken home, and during the next few days recovered rapidly.

Liverpool Grain Market.

LIVERPOOL, March 2.—A leading grain circular says dullness still prevails in the provincial markets, though no downward movement is apparent. On the contrary, some few places report slight improvement. The coast is again nearly cleared, and with small choice there is no inducement to operate freely, and in this branch of trade as well as for cargoes on passage and for shipment, prices are rather against sellers. Our arrivals for the past three days are thirty thousand quarters of wheat, of which five sixths are from California. Transactions since Tuesday have been very limited and prices were barely supported. Fresh supply of maize and flour are unusually high at this market. To-day attendance was meagre. Business in wheat only moderate, sellers conceding one penny per cental from Tuesday's quotation for red and white. Corn three pence per quarter, and is in fair request at the reduction.

Preparations for Inauguration.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The inauguration procession on Monday will be very large. Two light batteries from Fortress Monroe will arrive Sunday evening. The marines and sailors at the navy yard and possibly the naval cadets from Annapolis will take part in the procession, with all the military in the District, as well as the militia organizations of this city. The Hartranft and Crescent Clubs of Philadelphia will be in line; also the Turn Vereins of this city. Two regiments from Pennsylvania are expected. The torchlight procession promises to be a magnificent affair. There will be over 10,000 men in line. Decorating Pennsylvania avenue began this morning. A pyramid will be erected at each crossing, sixteen in all; besides there will be numerous arches, banners and bunting.

The inaugural procession will be composed of four divisions, and will move at 10 o'clock A. M. in the following order: Chief Marshal Brevet Major General William D. Whipple, U. S. A., and aides to chief marshal. First division—Capt. Ramsey's light battery, four guns and four caissons and twelve companies of artillery, acting as infantry, all under command of Brevet Major General W. H. French; second division—U. S. marine corps, eight companies under command of Lieutenant Colonel Haywood; third division—Colonel Albert J. Fleming, commanding, and aides, Washington Light Infantry, corps State fencibles and Weccacoe Legion of Philadelphia, Washington Light Guards, Washington artillery, first battalion district militia (colored) and three companies of Columbus, Ohio, cadets. Following these will come the President and Vice President elect, commissioners of the District and other distinguished persons, citizens' mounted guard, organized as escort to the President-elect, will follow. The fourth division will consist of various civic organizations.

President Hayes will take the oath of office at noon to-morrow in the Executive [illegible], which will be administered by Chief Justice Waite.

Movements of the President.

President Grant and son, U. S. Grant, Jr., visited President-elect Hayes to-day, and upon returning to the executive mansion the President again gave audience to many callers. The President will be at the capitol to-night and sign bills, as is the custom at the close of Congress. To-day he signed several bills removing political disabilities. It is said the President-elect will not take the oath of office till Monday.

State Dinner.

The President and Mrs. Grant gave a state dinner this evening in honor of the President elect and Mrs. Hayes. The following were present: President-elect and Mrs. Hayes, the Secretary of State and Mrs. Fish, Mrs. Secretary Morrill (Secretary Morrill was too ill to attend), the Secretary of War and Miss Cameron, the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Robeson, the Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Chandler, Postmaster General and Mrs. Taft, Hon. W. A. Wheeler, the Vice President elect, Senator and Mrs. Sherman, Senator and Mrs. Boutwell, Senator Cameron, Senator Morton, Mr. and Mrs. Conkling, Chief Justice and Mrs. Waite, General and Mrs. Mitchell, Col. and Mrs. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Sartoris, U. S. Grant, Jr., and Mr. Webb C. Hayes, son of the President-elect.

Redemption of 5-20's.

The Assistant Secretary of the Treasury to-day issued the 41st call for redemption of 5-20 bonds of May and November. The call is for $10,000,000, of which $7,000,000 are coupons and $3,000,000 registered bonds. Principal and interest will be paid at the treasury on and after the 3d of June next, and interest will cease on that day.

Released from the Crypt.

The Louisiana returning board has been discharged from custody.

Sherman as Secretary of the Treasury.

Friends of Senator Sherman state positively Sherman has been offered and will accept the nomination as Secretary of the Treasury.

Civil Service Reform.

NEW YORK, March 3.—The Herald hopes Hayes will stand by his civil service reform principles unflinchingly. He will meet with bitter opposition, but will rally to his support not only the better elements of his own party, but the best and wisest of the opposition will zealously aid him.

Morton Interviewed.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Senator Morton said last night to several Ohio friends: I am not authorized to speak for the President-elect, but I venture to say that in pursuing a just and conciliatory policy, it must proceed on the basis of enforcement of the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth constitutional amendments; it must proceed upon the basis of granting protection to life and liberty, and the political rights of all classes without regard to color or politics; there can be no compromise, no peace, which is not based upon political and civil rights of all classes of men. When there shall be such protection to life and liberty, then there will be peace and tranquility, but not before. I have no doubt from his utterances and lofty character that he will do the South full and ample justice, and endeavor as far as possible to obliterate the past, and blot out the hatreds engendered by the war, and that every step in that direction will be for the peace, security and protection of all. Senator Morton, in the course of his speech and at the close, was enthusiastically applauded. The delegation then retired, the band playing "Hold the Fort."

Democratic Address.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The Democratic caucus this evening adopted an address to the country prepared by Representative Hurd for signatures of members of the party in Congress. The address is in the nature of a protest against the declaration of Hayes and Wheeler as duly elected; criticises the action of the electoral commission, and asserts the right of Congress has been invaded; that crime and fraud have received judicial sanction, and republican institutions been imperiled. The caucus only adopted the address. It was of short duration and not numerously attended.

Desert Lands.

Both Senate and House have agreed to committees reports on bills for the sale of desert lands in the States and Territories.

The Ocean Subsidies.

CHICAGO, March 4.—The Tribune's Washington special says the Senate struck out the two appropriations for ocean subsidies under somewhat peculiar circumstances. Senator Booth, the anti-monopolist, chanced to be temporarily in the presiding officer's chair when the conference report came up on the point of subsidy. A presiding officer more favorable to the scheme might easily have recognized other persons. Booth, however recognized the mover and quickly put the question. Brought face to face with a direct vote on the subsidy scheme, Republican Senators dare not vote for it, and many who had voted for it as a chance in the original bill changed their votes to-day on this independent motion. Notable among these was Cragin, of New Hampshire. He is a candidate for a cabinet position under Hayes.

Snow.

CHICAGO, March 3.—Six inches of snow fe[illegible] to-day.

Trouble Anticipated.

CHICAGO, March 3.—The Times' New Orleans special foreshadows trouble on Monday in that city, when it is anticipated the Nicholls government will make movements that will precipitate a conflict and cause Federal interference in behalf of Nicholls.
